Holy Spirit School wishes to thank Garry Coyle of Coyle & Sons Fencing for their recent work installing the security fencing along the northern property line of our school.

In addition to the beautiful work on that job, Garry also replaced the fence in front of the school's trash dumpster and added a gate to the back side of our school playground at NO cost to the school !

We are grateful for his stewardship in donating back to God from his gifts of fencing materials.

DIVINE MERCY PRAYER @ THREE O'CLOCK

The Chaplet of Divine Mercy will continue to be said in the Church at 3:00pm and 3:30pm on ALL Fridays. Please join us.

Prayer leaflets, and rosaries will be provided.

We encourage everyone to say the Divine Mercy Chaplet at 3:00 in the afternoon. But if you are unable to say the Chaplet for whatever reason, why not say the Divine Mercy 3:00 Prayer?

The prayer is short and to the point. It reminds us of our Lord's Passion for us, and His great Mercy and Love for us.

And the Divine Mercy Three o' Clock Prayer can be easily memorized.

Also why not set an alarm for a minute between 3P-4P in the afternoon?

Letter From Our Pastor

As we continue to pray for the victims of sexual abuse, and for the protection of children, young people and all vulnerable people.

“Pope Francis’ Motu Proprio, ‘Vos estis lux mundi,’ (“You are the light of the world”) is a worldwide response to the evil of sexual abuse. The Holy Father makes clear in this apostolic letter that protection and healing must reach all of God’s children.

“The pope’s Motu Proprio expands accountability to cardinals, archbishops and bishops, and the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops has already begun the work of implementation measures for deliberation next month at the USCCB Plenary.

“The rules, which take effect worldwide on June 1, will be subject to review after three years. The desire to make this system as effective as possible – and to provide the utmost protection and healing to victims of abuse – necessitates an ongoing process of review and, where necessary, improvement.

Let us pray that we continue to grow into a stronger Church. As we pray let us remember the promise of the Lord “I make all things new!”

“I make all things new!” This is the good news Jesus brings us through his death and resurrection. The world hasn’t been the same since that moment in history. Death on a cross is Jesus’ glorification; his death brings life. His glorification reaches its fullness in his resurrection, and he desires to share his new, glorious life with us. He has done that through the waters of our baptism.

We are a new creation. Jesus tells us that there will come a time when this new creation will be complete. We will be his people forever, dwelling with him. Every tear will be wiped away. There will be no more death or mourning, crying out or pain. All things will be completely new in the kingdom of heaven.

Jesus has told us that he is going to his Father’s house to prepare a place for us. But he doesn’t want us to stand around looking to the heavens for his return.

He has given us his sure promise of future happiness so that we will have the strength and courage to get about the daily work of loving one another in the same way that he has loved us.

Loving in this way will be a challenge each day. His promise gives us hope and encouragement as we try to meet the challenges of loving. Our efforts to love really do have an effect on this passing world in which we live. The sincerity and generosity of our efforts to love will be a sign in this world of Jesus’ continuing presence and work among us. Our efforts to love will continue to announce good news to all we meet.

In light of hearing once again Jesus’ commandment to love, it’s important that we reflect on how committed we are to making daily efforts to love as Jesus has loved us. When we encounter people during the course of the day, do we try to witness to Jesus’ love for each person we meet?

Let’s pray for ourselves and for one another that we may grow even stronger and more courageous in our efforts to love as Jesus has loved us. Through us, Jesus is making all things new.

“As Pope Francis writes in his apostolic letter, although much has been accomplished, we must continue to learn from the bitter lessons of the past while looking with hope to the future.”

May our God be praised in us!

In Christ’s Love,

Father Amar Nagothu, M.S.F.S

Faith makes us love the beauty of it’s truth and believe the truth of it’s beauty by the sweetness which it gives to the intellect.

Pope Francis - Motu Proprio

President of U.S. Bishops' Conference Issues Statement on Pope Francis's Motu Proprio Ordering Worldwide Response to the Evil of Sexual Abuse Q&A Included

May 9, 2019

WASHINGTON—Cardinal Daniel N. DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston-Houston and President of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, has issued the following statement regarding the release of Pope Francis's Motu Proprio earlier today. The Motu Proprio, Vos estis lux mundi ("You are the light of the world"), is a worldwide order to the Church from the Pope, in response to the evil of sexual abuse. The new law comes after a meeting in Rome that brought together all episcopal conference presidents from across the globe to discuss the Church sex abuse crisis.

Cardinal DiNardo's full statement follows:

"Today, Pope Francis ordered a worldwide response to the evil of sexual abuse. It calls for the establishment of easily accessible reporting systems, clear standards for the pastoral support of victims and their families, timeliness and thoroughness of investigations, whistleblower protection for those making allegations, and active involvement of the laity. It also leaves latitude for national bishops' conferences, such as the USCCB, to specify still more to account for their local circumstances. We receive the Motu Proprio Vos estis lux mundi ('You are the light of the world') as a blessing that will empower the Church everywhere to bring predators to justice, no matter what rank they hold in the Church. It also permits the Church the time and opportunity to bring spiritual healing.

The Holy Father said a 'continuous and profound conversion of hearts is needed, attested by concrete and effective actions that involve everyone in the Church.' Pope Francis was clear that this responsibility 'falls, above all, on the successors of the Apostles.' As part of this responsibility, bishops also will be held accountable under the authority of this Motu Proprio, which covers sexual abuse of minors or vulnerable persons, sexual acts compelled through the abuse of authority, and any coverup of such crimes.

In publishing this new law, which is applicable to the Church throughout the world, Pope Francis has made clear that protection and healing must reach all of God's children. Following on the meeting just two months ago of all episcopal conference presidents, the Motu Proprio shows Pope Francis expects swift and comprehensive progress. For the Church in the United States, the task before us now is to establish whatever is necessary to ensure the effective implementation of the Motu Proprio. Our committees have already begun the work of preparing implementation measures for deliberation at the USCCB Plenary Assembly in June.

I am grateful for the opportunity to build upon the excellent foundation of the USCCB's Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People, the Essential Norms for Diocesan/Eparchial Policies Dealing with Sexual Abuse of Minors by Priests or Deacons, and the Statement of Episcopal Commitment, all of which date back to 2002. The existing framework in the United States including victim outreach, zero tolerance, reporting allegations to civil authorities, and lay expertise on review boards, among other measures - positions us readily to bring the Holy Father's instructions to action. By embracing the painful experience of survivors and working on these new protections, let us pray we continue to grow into a stronger Church."

Motu Proprio Q & A

Questions & Answers Regarding Pope Francis's Motu Proprio Vos estis lux mundi

What does the new Motu Proprio do?

The new Motu Proprio Vos estis lux mundi is a significant move forward for the universal Church, one that echoes many of the practices established in the U.S. Bishops' Essential Norms and the Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People that have been in force in the United States since 2002. For example, it affirms the existing:

- Commitment to provide for the spiritual and emotional well-being of victims/ survivors and their families;
- Duty to comply with all applicable civil laws with respect to the reporting of allegations of sexual abuse of minors to civil authorities;
- Right of any person to report such crimes;
- Guarantee of a prompt and objective investigation;
- Assurance of lay involvement

The Motu Proprio also continues to focus on victims by significantly building upon existing local practices, for example by expanding the scope of cases to include:

- The sexual abuse of a new classification of "vulnerable persons,"
- The use of violence or other abuse of power to perform or submit to sexual acts, any cover up of such conduct by other;
- Those who are to be reported for such cases, namely, cardinals, bishops, other clerics, religious superiors, and other members of institutes of consecrated life or societies of apostolic life;
- Reporting obligations to include mandatory, internal reporting;
- Safeguards against retaliation or discrimination by mandating "whistle-blower" protections

When do these norms take effect?

They will take effect on June 1, 2019;

- They will be reviewed by the Holy See after three years and adjusted as needed;
- Every diocese and eparchy (either individually or collectively) is to have a publicly accessible means for people to report cases covered under the Motu Proprio by June 1, 2020. In the United States, while this has already been accomplished for cases involving the sexual abuse of minors by priests and deacons, reporting mechanisms will have to be modified to serve the broader categories of the Motu Proprio.

What about cases of sexual misconduct that do not fall under this Motu Proprio?

These are generally already covered by existing diocesan or eparchial codes of conduct. With the help of lay and legal experts, bishops are working on ways to ensure that coverage and enhance awareness and reporting mechanisms for such cases.

How are transparency and confidentiality promoted in this new Motu Proprio?

The Motu Proprio increases transparency by establishing clear procedures that must be followed, reaffirming the obligation to report to civil authorities, providing for lay involvement in internal investigations, protecting from possible conflicts of interest, and ensuring that those who report complaints to the church are also free to report the same information to others and are protected from retaliation. At the same time, because the Motu Proprio involves the investigation of a complaint, it carefully balances the rights of those involved. Confidentiality is needed for the effectiveness of the investigation. It protects victims and witnesses, as well as the presumption of innocence and the seal of the confessional.

Does this new Motu Proprio interfere or hinder civil law, such as mandatory reporting requirements and civil investigations?

In no way. The Motu Proprio establishes the canonical (Church law) procedures that are to be followed. Included in these procedures, however, is the obligation to comply with all applicable civil laws.

Zero tolerance is not mentioned. Is that no longer the policy of the Catholic Church?

In the United States, zero tolerance has been the policy since 2002, which comes from the Charter and the Essential Norms. The Motu Proprio does not undo this policy. Other episcopal conferences around the world have or will be developing policies appropriate to their legal and cultural situations. The good news here is that what was first thought of as an "American problem" or a "Western problem" is now on everyone's radar.

Why does the Motu Proprio focus on the role of the Metropolitan?

The Motu Proprio uses the Metropolitan because it is a position in the church that is grounded in tradition and the teaching of Vatican II and is governed by existing canon law.

This also allows investigations to be carried out on the local level, where the Metropolitan will have more direct access to information, documents, and lay experts to help investigate, and can collaborate with civil authorities. The Metropolitan, being local, can also take measures to preserve and secure evidence.

Recent investigations of misconduct by a bishop, such as in West Virginia, have successfully followed this practice.

What does this mean for the proposals the U.S. bishops considered last November?

The work of our committees that has already taken place will be examined and adapted to work within the framework of the new Motu Proprio and will be the basis for deliberation over its implementation at the USCCB Plenary Assembly in June.
