FROM OUR PASTOR'S DESK

ARE YOU WILLING TO PAY THE PRICE? September has returned: new beginnings. There is the start-up of activities: things re-awaken in September.

New adventures need planning. We have a tradition for planning that goes back long before Jesus. It is being a realist when we initiate something. The examples that Jesus uses of the king contemplating battle and the builder contemplating construction are a stark reality.

"No one plans to fail they just fail to plan." Cost is an essential part of planning. Jesus tells us about the cost of our planning to be a disciple: you must "hate" even your father and mother.

Now, we should know that the Aramaic word for hate does not mean the same in English as it does in Aramaic; there, it is not emotional hate, but rather means "to love less" or "not to choose." The meaning of the Gospel is that nothing and no one can be put ahead of God in our personal hierarchy of values.

I think every one of us takes a long time to come to comprehend that "hard" saying of Jesus about prioritizing God above all. We tend to ignore it. Jesus teaches us that there must be no idolatries in our life - no matter how worthy the object of our devotion may be. People, like father, mother, loved one, children, and friends; things, like career, education, talent, physical fitness, television, and sports. We must "hate" [refuse to idolize] all persons, all things. Discipleship with its cost is paramount; it redefines all other loyalties.

We have an advantage over the people who heard Jesus that day. Neither Jesus nor his listeners knew then all that lay before Jesus: the cost of loss of the respect of many, the cost of the passion, and the cost of his crucifixion. We have the benefit of having seen the whole picture, including his resurrection. We have seen what has happened within us after our appreciation for what he has done.

In considering the cost of discipleship, we raise another question: what is the cost of not following? Only God knows. In our hearts, we sense a great tragedy avoided.

September is a time for planning. Just as football teams have a game plan, financial analysts have a fiscal plan, teachers have a lesson plan, and students have a study plan - each one of us today needs a personal, spiritual plan. No one plans to fail they just fail to plan.

How are we planning the use of our time, our talent, and our treasure?
