FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

THE MOST SACRED HEART OF JESUS

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

The month of June is dedicated to the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus. We are invited to contemplate the heart of love - pure and simple, meek and humble, generous and gracious and flowing to the deserving and undeserving. On one occasion, Jesus thanked his Father for revealing himself to the simple and humble (Mathew 11:25-29). The humble and the simple welcomed him. The intellectuals had no use for him. Intellectual pride blocks us from coming to know the truth as the truth unfolds for us.

Engines, sometimes, develop too much inner friction and so a string of complications, using up too much energy while producing too little and making too much noise. They require much cooling to prevent breakdown. People, sometimes, meet similar situations: too much inner friction; too much self in the work; too much concern with self; too much concern over what others think of them; too much pride; too much concern over success, etc. They consume too much energy, accomplish too little, and make too much fuss over the little they do and require too much encouragement and support to keep going.

Jesus said, "Come to me all who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest...Take my yoke upon your shoulders and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble of heart. Your souls will find rest, for my yoke is easy and my burden light" (Mathew 11:25-29). My yoke is easy! The word "easy" does not mean that it is easy as we understand the word easy today. It should be translated "well-fitting". This simply means that the yoke is "tailor-made" to fit us well. Yoke is that which makes a pair of oxen or bulls disciplined so that the man who ploughs the field can plow a straight furrow and the man who drives the cart can drive it in the direction in which he wants to go. "Take my yoke" means take my discipline, my way and you will go with me...

There is a legend about Jesus and his family in Nazareth. The legend tells us that there was signboard on Joseph's carpenter shop, which said "my yoke fits well". In the days of Jesus, yokes were "tailor-made" to fit the pair of oxen or bulls. Well-fitting yoke meant "well-disciplined oxen and that the discipline fits the oxen or bulls. It is a legend. But it gives us insights into the saying of Jesus; "my yoke is easy". The discipline of Jesus is "tailor-made" for us. It suits us well. It is made to fit our needs...help us go in the direction in which he wants us to go and fulfill his purpose. Let us pray that the Heart of Jesus become a refuge for all who are overcome by life's struggles and troubles. The way of Jesus is the way the heart, the way of love. Make it your way. (Adopted from Fr. Gus)

"O Sacred Heart of Jesus, fountain of eternal life, Your Heart is a glowing furnace of Love. You are my refuge and my sanctuary." – St. Gertrude the Great

AROUND THE PARISH

FROM THE PARISH NURSE AND HEALTH MINISTRY

BENEFITS OF MEDITATION FOR MIND AND BODY

The effects of meditation may help improve health and well being by promoting relaxation, quality of life, social relationships and by reducing pain, stress, depression and anxiety. There are many resources available such as contemplating on the Mysteries of the Rosary, Eucharistic Adoration, reflecting on the daily Mass readings, meditative prayers by the Saints and so on. Prayer can be used as an everyday form of meditation to benefit the health of the mind and body.

Practice of Lectio Divina

St. Augustine of Hippo's phrase "ever ancient, ever new" describes the renewed interest in praying with Scripture that has re-emerged in today's Church. Around the country, parish Bible study groups, small Christian communities, and other faith sharers have rediscovered a simple, insightful way to hear and experience the Word of God with one another through an ancient prayer form, lectio divina.

"The reading from the Word of God at each Hour . . . and readings from the Fathers and spiritual masters at certain Hours, reveal more deeply the meaning of the mystery being celebrated, assist in understanding the psalms, and prepare for silent prayer. The lectio divina, where the Word of God is so read and meditated that it becomes prayer, is thus rooted in the liturgical celebration."

"Meditation engages thought, imagination, emotion, and desire. This mobilization of faculties is necessary in order to deepen our convictions of faith, prompt the conversion of our heart, and strengthen our will to follow Christ. Christian prayer tries above all to meditate on the mysteries of Christ, as in lectio divina or the rosary. This form of prayerful reflection is of great value, but Christian prayer should go further: to the knowledge of the love of the Lord Jesus, to union with him."

—Catechism of the Catholic Church, 2nd ed., nos. 1177, 2708
(Washington, DC: Libreria Editrice Vaticana—United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, 2000)

Lectio divina is a form of meditation rooted in liturgical celebration that dates back to early monastic communities. It was a method practiced by monks in their daily encounter with Scripture, both as they prepared for the Eucharist and as they prayed the Liturgy of the Hours. Its use continued in the Middle Ages in religious orders, such as the Benedictines and Carmelites, that not only practiced lectio divina daily but passed this treasure from the past on to the next generations. The practice of lectio divina is resurfacing today as a wonderful way to meditate on God's Word.

What Does the Latin Name Mean?

The Latin phrase "lectio divina" may be translated as "divine reading." Lectio divina is a method for praying with the Scriptures. As one reads and invites the Word to become a transforming lens that brings the events of daily living into focus, one can come to live more deeply and find the presence of God more readily in the events of each day. The method of lectio divina follows four steps: lectio (reading), meditatio (meditation), contemplatio (contemplation), and oratio (prayer).

"Lectio," or "reading," is the first step in the prayer process. The early monks understood that the fruitfulness of a monk's prayer depends upon the simplicity, reverence, and openness to the Spirit with which the "reader" approaches the Word of God. The goal of this reading is not to rush through several chapters of Scripture. The reader, rather than trying to take in large sections of Scripture, adopts a reflective stance towards a short Scripture passage, pausing on a single word or phrase that resonates with the mind and heart.

This "reading" leads to the second step, known as "meditatio"—Latin for "meditation"—which invites one to reflect upon what was read. Ancient monks explained this process as a deep, unhurried thinking about the Word one has read—a rumination, somewhat like the way a cow chews the cud. As the Word is read in this step, the process of ruminating gradually draws the meditator's focus from concerns of the mind to concerns of the heart.

The Word moves a person more deeply with the third step, which the ancients called "contemplatio" or "contemplation." Contemplation is characterized by an openness of the heart, by which the reader experiences God as the One who prays within, who allows the person in contemplation to know the Word wordlessly and without image. By God's grace, contemplatio gives one a unique ability to connect one's newly discovered insights to daily life experiences, with the inspiration that comes from the Word of God and that has the gracious capacity to refresh the heart and mind.

The fourth and final step, "oratio," meaning "oration" or "prayer," invites one's personal response to God. This response is dialogical and can be understood as "a conversation between friends," as St. Teresa of Avila defined prayer. One takes the time to talk to God about what was read, heard, or experienced, or about the questions that have arisen in the depth of one's being. This response can become transformative when one accepts the promptings of the Word toward an embrace of all that life now holds. One can find God in the ups and downs of life, in times of joy and pain, as well as in ordinary, everyday moments.
